Offered by the Department

Major in Chicana and Chicano studies with the B.A. degree in liberal arts and sciences.

Minor in Chicana and Chicano studies.

Minor in United States-Mexican border studies.

Certificate in United States-Mexico border studies.

The Major

Recognized for its commitment to excellence in teaching, research and service, Chicana and Chicano studies provides timely, interdisciplinary education regarding the nation's fast-growing ethnic group, the Chicano/Latino, and the interplay of culture, politics, economics and society in the dynamic U.S.-Mexican border region. The Department of Chicana and Chicano Studies also endeavors to contribute to the development of knowledge about the Chicano/Latino populations and the border region through original scholarship on the part of its faculty and students. The department recognizes women and gender based issues as integral to a Chicano studies program. In 1993, the department inaugurated the Magdalena Mora Award to be awarded to the winner of the outstanding history essay in Mexican/Chicana women at the undergraduate level.

Chicana and Chicano studies majors may choose one of two areas: Humanities, which includes courses designed to increase the student's awareness of the regional diversity of Chicana and Chicano communities, as well as intellectual, aesthetic, literary, historical, ethical, and human values; and Social Science, including courses which analyze social institutions and how they affect the individual and also emphasize contemporary Mexican American issues as they relate to the larger society. Areas of study include political science, anthropology, economics, sociology, and history.

Bilingual/bicultural graduates are sought after more than ever before. A student with a major or minor in Chicana and Chicano studies has a good possibility of securing a position and advancing. Although employment opportunities in regular classroom teaching and other careers have remained fairly constant, the number of positions for bilingual/bicultural graduates has continued to increase.

Chicana and Chicano studies is also an excellent major as preparation for postgraduate study in various professional schools. For example, students can continue their studies for advanced degrees in law, with positions specializing in minority or barrio problems; social work, as a medical or psychiatric social worker in a minority community; public administration; librarianship; and business administration, with careers in accounting, marketing, bank management, and insurance.

Advising

All College of Arts and Letters majors are urged to consult with their department adviser as soon as possible; they are required to meet with their department adviser within the first two semesters after declaration or change of major.
